

Amy's Bio

Amy Schisler is an award-winning author of faith-inspired fiction, poetry, devotionals, children's books, and a weekly blog. She has published two children's books numerous novels, including the award-winning Whispering Vines and the Chincoteague Island Trilogy. Amy was raised in Southern Maryland and holds a Bachelor's Degree from Salisbury University and a Master's in Library and Information Science from the University of Maryland. A former librarian in Calvert and Talbot Counties and at Chesapeake College, Amy enjoys a busy life on the Eastern Shore where she volunteers at Saints Peter and Paul Church and runs a week-long Girl Scout Camp every summer. Amy and husband, Ken, are excited about their new roles as grandparents!

Passionate about writing from early on, Amy's summer experiences with her grandparents on the shores of the Wicomico River in St. Mary's County, inspired the setting of her books, Crabbing With Granddad (2015), and The Devil's Fortune (2019).

The recipient of numerous national literary awards, including the Illumination, LYRA, Independent Publisher, International Digital, Indies, and Golden Quill Awards, as well as honors from the Catholic Press Association and the Eric Hoffer Book Award, Amy's writing has been hailed "a verbal masterpiece of art" and "Everything you want in a book." Amy's books are available internationally, wherever books are sold, in print and eBook formats.

Amy's 150-word Bio

Amy Schisler is a novelist, poet, children's book author, spiritual writer, blogger, reader, and avid traveler with years of professional experience in all manner of writing-related endeavors. Whether she's writing novels filled with faith and inspiration, books that children will love, or her weekly blog devoted to family life and faith, she loves connecting and resonating with her readers. Amy's first novel, A Place to Call Home, a romantic suspense, debuted in 2014, and her much-loved Chincoteague Island Trilogy has won numerous literary awards. Amy lives on the Eastern Shore of Maryland with her husband, Ken, their daughters, and their dogs. When she's not writing, Amy can usually be found on a boat in the Chesapeake Bay or hiking in the Rocky Mountains, most often with a good book in her hand. Amy's writing has been hailed "a verbal masterpiece of art" and "Everything you want in a book."

70-word Bio

Amy is a novelist, poet, children's book author, spiritual writer, blogger, reader, and avid traveler. Whether she's writing novels of faith and inspiration, books for children, or her weekly blog, she loves connecting with readers. Her much-loved Chincoteague Island Trilogy has won numerous literary awards. Amy lives on the Eastern Shore. When she's not writing, Amy can be found on a boat in the Chesapeake or hiking in the Rocky Mountains.

50-word Bio

Amy is a novelist, poet, children's book author, spiritual writer, blogger, reader, and avid traveler. Whether she's writing novels of faith and inspiration, books for children, or her blog, she loves connecting with readers. Her much-loved Chincoteague Island Trilogy has won numerous literary awards. Amy lives on the Eastern Shore.